Our Dream

We dream of creating a world together, in which the access to active citizenship creates happiness among our fellow elderly citizens by providing them with an opportunity to remain an active part of society and the local community.

We do that by giving them the right to wind in their hair, the right to experience the city and nature close up from the bicycle and by giving them an opportunity to tell their story in the environment where they have lived their lives.

That way we build bridges between generations and we reinforce trust, respect and the social glue in our society.

HOLACRACY

Holacracy takes powers traditionally reserved for executives and managers and spreads them across all employees.

In a traditional hierarchy, layers of management establish how products are approved and monitored.

A group of people, mostly women, are gathered on a red motorbike in a snowy street. In the foreground, a small wooden table holds several white cups with sticks, likely hot chocolate or coffee. The people are wearing winter coats, hats, and sunglasses. The background shows a cobblestone street with snow patches, parked cars, and buildings under a clear blue sky. A red banner with white text is overlaid on the right side of the image.

CLARA CLARK, CWA IRELAND

A close-up portrait of a middle-aged man with light brown hair, some of which is grey. He has a deeply furrowed brow and his eyes are squinted, conveying a sense of stress or exhaustion. He is wearing a tan-colored jacket over a grey, textured scarf. The background is slightly out of focus, showing a body of water, some reeds, and industrial buildings with tall chimneys under a clear blue sky. The lighting is bright, suggesting it's daytime.
